The first of the series of lectures on the history of the British Empire was given by Mr. J. H. Morgan on the subject of "The British Empire in the Nineteenth Century".
The lecture was held in the Lecture Theatre of the University of Cambridge on the 10th of November 1911.
The lecture was attended by a large number of students and was most interesting. Mr. Morgan dealt with the history of the British Empire from the time of the discovery of America to the present day. He dealt with the various stages of the Empire's growth and the part played by the British in each stage. He also dealt with the various problems which have arisen in the administration of the Empire and the part played by the British in each of these problems. The lecture was very well received and was a most successful one.
